Washington, May 22.—President Wilson yesterday expressed his approval of the daylight saving plan to a delegation headed by Representative Borah of Missouri and Marcus Marais of New York president of the National Daylight Saving association. The subject will be taken up with the leaders.

Three Lobster Fishermen Report Seeing What is Believed to be a Hostile Undersea Boat Off Seguin Light.

WILL OPEN BATTLE FOR SMALL'S LIFE

Both Sides Said to Have New Evidence in Murder Case.

Ossipee, N. H., May 22.—A fight for a new trial for Frederick J. Small of Mountainview, formerly a Boston stock broker, now confined in state prison at Concord, under sentence to be hanged on January 15, next, for the murder of his wife, Florence Allen (Curry) Small, in their cottage at Lake Ossipee, Sept. 8 last, will be started at the session of superior court which opens here today.

A new trial will be asked for on the 34 exceptions taken at the trial, the objection to some testimony being that it was not admissible. It will also be argued that the case should have been heard in some other court.

An attempt will be made to take the case before the supreme bench should the petition for the new trial be denied by Judge John Kivel.

It is said that Small's lawyers have much new evidence to present, and in case of a new trial it is said that the state also would put in new evidence. Small, who has been in state prison since January is said to be in good health and spirits.

Portland, Me., May 22.—Persistent reports current since the war was declared that a German submarine was operating in New England waters were given official recognition today, following a report that following the sighting of a periscope, a submarine was seen running awash off Machias as 6 last night.

Three lobster fishermen also saw the supposed submarine, which they picked up off Seguin light at 9:15 o'clock. The craft was a mile and a half away but could be plainly seen. As they were watching her the motorboat back fired and immediately following the report the submarine submerged.

They hurried ashore and report the fact and shortly afterwards another fisherman reported seeing the strange craft west of Seguin light.

The position of the craft would fit in with her position if she had continued her course westward from Cross Island where she was first seen by two coast guards.

One guard observed her first and he was later joined by another and the two men watched the vessel for an hour. They had ample time to study the craft.

Washington, May 22.—The naval commander of the Maine coast has forwarded a report of a submarine off that coast which so far is without confirmation. An investigation is in progress.

TAKES A CHANCE WITH DEATH TO SAVE HIS HORSES

Driver Jumps in River When Horses Go Over Edge of Dump and Releases Them.

On Sunday morning while dumping a cart load of rubbish into the river on the land of August Heft, off Vaughan street, a pair of horses attached to the cart were dragged over the edge of the dump and into the river. The quick and brave action of the driver was witnessed by several people in the neighborhood, which no doubt saved the lives of the animals.

While the pair were kicking and jumping in a furious manner, the driver plunged into the stream and released them. With the water over his head he unlatched what harness he could and the rest he cut with a knife. It was a chance of being kicked to death or drowned, but he escaped both and soon had the horses up over the bank. The cart was hauled out later.

CANADIAN BOXER WINNER IN SLASHING GOOD BOUT

The undivided opinion of the large number of fans attending the meeting of the Rockingham A. C. last evening was an endorsement of the decision of Referee George McCurdy of Newburyport when he awarded to Lew Crevier of Alberta, Can., the fight over Al Gerard of Boston at the end of a slashing ten-round bout for the state scrap of the evening. It was a slashing battle and had the fans on their feet from the opening bell until the finish. Although losing the decision Gerard put up a good scrap, showing great gameness throughout the fight although he was clearly outclassed by the Canadian boxer. From the fifth round until the last session was history, he must have known that he was on the short end of the fight and despite this he rushed to meet his opponent with the opening of each round with undiminished willingness. He took a lot of punishment and did his best against a better man.

Both Gerard and Crevier were clever and they put up one grand clean exhibition of fight, neither showing the least tendency to stall or to play the game in any but the cleanest fashion. Crevier was able to handle the Irish scrapper without difficulty and although there were times when a majority of the fans believed that he could win by the K. O. route he never made any attempt to hit his opponent when he was not in shape to take a punch. From the scrappers to the referee it was a satisfactory struggle. Of the ten rounds the first and fourth looked fairly even while the other eight clearly belonged to the Canadian.

In the fifth session Crevier hammered his opponent so severely that he began to bleed from the nose and it was the opinion of the fans that the Boston man was safe from a K. O. by the bell. Twice after this Gerard was believed to be nearly out when the bell sounded. But he was there with the comeback slug at the beginning of each succeeding round and for at least one out of the three minutes he put up a good scrap. Crevier was able to stop his opponent's rushes with his left and hit Gerard almost at will. The last four rounds were about as fast as any seen in the local arena and the fans sure had all that was coming to them in the way of action.

In the semi-final bout Danny Danforth of Philadelphia and Billy Woods of Manchester went six rounds to a draw after one of the pretty battles seen here. Both youngsters were willing to fight all of the time and they delivered the goods. Mr. McCurdy's decision met with popular favor at the hands of the fans.

The only knockout was scored in the prelude when Young Williams of the U. S. S. Southern put Kid Smith of the Naval Prison Marine Guard to sleep in the third round.

Matchmaker Dow had one well balanced card for the entertainment and all six fighters were game, fast, and willing to battle all the time. In the selection of Mr. McCurdy as the third man in the ring Mr. Dow proved that he was as good at picking referees as he was at securing boxers.

An Artist's Impression of "A Broken Idol," as Presented Last Evening at the Colonial Theatre by the Musical Merry Makers.

March's Musical Merry Makers opened a two weeks' engagement at the Colonial Theatre Monday afternoon to an appreciative audience. Monday night will be called the grand opening as the house was filled from pit to dome. To say that the show pleased would be putting it mildly, as nothing has ever been seen in Portsmouth especially at popular prices.

The opening play was Otis Harker's vehicle, "A Broken Idol." The curtain rose on a street scene in the Chinese quarters in Los Angeles during a New Year's celebration. The stage looked truly oriental, with its Chinese temple, Chinese theatre and the chop suey restaurant all decked in Chinese lanterns and paraphernalia. The chorus girls, who are really pretty, all wore the Chinese pantaloons and jackets and carried illuminated Chinese lanterns. From then on the girls, while not on the stage, were kept busy continually changing from one pretty costume to another, finally whirling up the evening as Scotch lasses.

Don McMillan, billed as the principal comedian, lived up to all that advance notices had claimed. He is a jolly little fellow, with a wonderful personality and a smile that won't wear off. He was ably assisted by Al Warren, as the old gay sport and Lew Naden as the hen-pecked husband. While celebrating the New Year, the old professor becomes intoxicated and his only reply is "What of it?" which he persists in saying at the wrong time. Eddie Dehman as Jack Mason gave a very pleasing performance and displayed a good singing voice. William McMillan as the sporty Englishman, lived up to our idea of a real London chap. Dagmar Linette, the prima donna is a very pretty blonde who wears some handsome gowns. Ruth Wheeler as Marie, the French girl, alternated between long and short dresses, all of which were stylish and attractive; as a Scotch lassie singing Bonnie Scotland she scored a distinct hit.

Nettie Wood as Mrs. Muddelford was very pleasing. Assisted by the quartet she sang "Hail to the Sea," and was forced to respond to several encores.

J. Warren Lawler and Dorothy Dee were truly original in their picturesque costumes. Of the musical numbers, "What Makes the World Go Round," "That's the Sign of Springtime," and "Alabama," deserve special mention. The illuminated Winter Garden runway is a distinct novelty. It is a beautiful affair extending over half way into the body of the theatre, upon which the principals and chorus parade and romp to their heart's content also to the glory and satisfaction of the audience. It is an attraction in itself and will cause wonderment to all who see it.

The performances started at 7.15 with an overture by an augmented orchestra followed by the Hearst-Pathe News, after which the show proper started, and concluded at ten o'clock, thus allowing out of town patrons an opportunity to catch their cars, which will be held until the end of each performance. -Advt.

Lemons Whiten and Beautify the Skin! Make Cheap Lotion

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothening and beautifier. Just try it! Make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen, and bring out the hidden roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful for rough, red hands.

Your druggist will sell three ounces of orchard white at little cost, and any grocer will supply the lemons.

THREE MILLION DOLLAR FIRE LOSS AT ATLANTA

Scores of Beautiful Homes Destroyed by Flames and Dynamite--Hundreds Made Homeless and Citizens and Red Cross Taking Care of Feeding the Suffering--One Life is Lost

MUNITIONS CAMPAIGN IN FRANCE

Grenoble, France, May 22.—A new "women's town" in the valley of the Romanche, a few miles from Grenoble is one of the evolutions of the "munitions" campaign in France. An important electric iron works employing 300 men before the war was called upon to triple its force on contracts for the government. Half of its working force had been mobilized. Women from the region took the absent men's places, but for the new requirements no help was available. The minister of munitions agreed to find elsewhere women workers for the requirements, but there was no place to lodge them. Exposition buildings from the 1903 sample fair were shipped to the spot forming the nucleus of a new "women's town" that has developed into a modern village of nearly a thousand population with baths, recreation grounds and all modern comforts.

NEW MEDAL IN HONOR OF BELGIAN QUEEN

Huvel, May 22.—The Elizabeth medal is a new decoration just created by the Belgian government in honor of the Queen of the Belgians. The medal was designed by the Belgian sculptor, Victor Hussenot. It bears upon its face an effigy of the Queen and on the back the figure of a valiant woman holding a flame that symbolizes patriotism, honor and charity. This figure is surrounded by the device: "Pro Patria, Honore et Caritate." The ribbon is blue with rose border.

Two of these medals have already been conferred, one upon the princess Victor Napoleon, who was, Clementine of Belgium, cousin of King Albert, and the other upon the Duchess of Vendôme, King Albert's sister.

(By Associated Press)
Atlanta, Ga.—The origin of a path through the residential section and for a time threatened to become a conflagration. The flames were not under control until one-half of Ponce de Leon avenue, the most exclusive of the residential streets in the city, and suffered severely. Early estimates of the loss were placed at between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. The fire was confined to the northeastern part of the city and for the most part the loss is in residential property. Several business buildings were destroyed on Decatur and Fort streets, all warehouses near where the fire originated. The fire was not out tonight although it was believed to be under control at midnight.

The high winds drove the flames by leaps to the northeast and kept ahead of the efforts of the firemen to prevent the spread of the fire. The fire soon threatened to assume the proportions of a conflagration and the firemen were forced to call for assistance from the Port McPherson officers training camp and help was also received from the apparatus and men of neighboring towns.

Because of the high wind scores of pretty homes were destroyed with the placing of dynamite under residences on the Boulevard for the purpose of checking the flames. One whole block was soon destroyed and hundreds of the summer homes of visitors were included in the losses in this section. The dynamite was forced to make a second attempt almost at this very point.

A full in the wind was responsible in a great measure to the checking of the flames which did so great damage. Thousands are homeless, are being cared for by a citizens' committee, and the local chapter of the American Red Cross. More than 500 were fed at the Y. M. C. A. and the state armory and that it would continue to feed everyone who was hungry. Those taken care of here included 190 or more children, inmates of the Home for the Friendless.

The large part of the town devastated by the fire was composed of homes valued at between $2500 and $5000. The severest damage was done in a block bounded by Myland street on the west, Prospect Park on the east, Edgewood avenue on the south and North avenue on the north.

The James did not reach Peach street the main thoroughfare of the city by several blocks, although at times it was believed that all of this property would be destroyed. Chief Cody of the fire department gave out the statement at midnight that although the fire was not entirely subdued it was under control.

Scores of people were injured but the only death recorded is that of a woman who died from shock.

LARGE NUMBERS ENTERTAINED AT THE Y. M. C. A.

DORMITORIES TAXED TO CAPACITY ON SATURDAY AND SUNDAY BY NAVAL BOYS.

That the enlisted men appreciate the service being rendered at the local Y. M. C. A. building is well evidenced by the fact that over Saturday and Sunday about one hundred and fifty fellows, mostly from the boats stationed at the Navy Yard, made their headquarters there, taxing the present dormitory facilities to their capacity.

The war work at the Y. M. C. A. building is in charge of Mr. Winthrop C. Turner of North Abington, Mass., who came here two weeks ago with Mr. Alfred C. Bates of Plainfield, N. J., who is the district secretary here, having his headquarters at the local building.

In the dormitories ninety single beds are now set up and ready for use and the number is to be increased to one hundred and fifty at an early date. Writing desks have been installed in the lobby and mail service direct from the building is in operation. Stationery and envelopes are provided free of charge. The call for these has been very great and many letters are going out daily to the boys' homes in various parts of the United States. Magazines and newspapers are kept on file, also games such as checkers, chess and dominoes are supplied. Many fellows of musical ability are found among the enlisted men and groups about the Association play songs about the war as well as the popular selections of the day.

The men carrying on the work at the building are doing their utmost to make the stay of the fellows stationed at Portsmouth as pleasant as possible and later on it is planned to hold entertainments, addresses by well known men and talks of an educational nature.

The Grand River, near Saint Nazaire, and the station of Chateauneuf, according to estimates, hold some 200,000 tons of dried peat, affording an average of 2000 calories per pound, or about half the heating power of coal. Considering the greater facility of production, it is figured that one workman can extract a number of calories in peat far superior to the average production per miner from coal.

SAFE AND SANE JULY 4TH FOR PORTSMOUTH

POLICE COMMISSIONERS FORBID FIREWORKS AND PASS IMPORTANT RULING AGAINST LODGERS AT THE POLICE STATION.

Following the example of most of the cities throughout the country the Board of Police Commissioners at their meeting on Monday ordered that the "firing of fireworks and explosives of every description be prohibited on the 4th of July." The resolution was passed without opposition and is expected to meet with favor by the majority of the citizens although it is a disappointment to the young. The Board will instruct the officers to follow the order to the letter and Portsmouth will likely experience the most quiet celebration in its history. The order is intended to cover the firing of all kinds of fireworks, revolvers and pistols.

Portsmouth will be a good town for tramps to stay away from after this date after a resolution adopted by the police commissioners. In the future "lodgers" will be classed as tramps unless they can furnish a very plausible excuse for being out of employment at a time when practically every man may secure work if he wants it.

The ruling of the commissioners passed by the meeting is to the effect that all tramps will be placed before the court and in the morning, provided their excuse will not hold water, they will be shot up the river on the May-slide limited for a session at agricultural pursuits for a time. The commissioners are trying to rid the town of this undesirable element and ruled that all tramps would be "put to work" by the sentence of the court.

VOLUNTEERS FOR REGISTRATION BADLY NEEDED

CITY OFFICIALS APPEAL FOR ASSISTANCE IN TAKING CARE OF THE CONSCRIPTION WORK ON JUNE 5TH.

Registration of all male citizens of the country between the ages of 21 and 31 have been called upon by President Wilson to register for the selective draft, under the recent army bill passed by Congress, of June 5. The work in this city will be done by the city clerk and several moderators and the clerks of the five wards, and such volunteers as can report. Volunteers for this work will perform the duties without remuneration, as will also the officials and the hours are from 7:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m.

The registration officials are asking for what assistance they may be able to secure and any person who can read and write will be acceptable for the duties for whatever part of the day they can find time to devote to the work. Those calling to assist in this work can communicate with the city clerk for their specific instructions as to when their services will be most needed during the day. A large number will be required and it is the hope of the Public Safety that they may be readily secured.

URGES SPEED IN BUILDING 'SWEEPERS'

SECRETARY DANIELS HAS CONFERENCE WITH SHIPBUILDERS—GOVERNMENT TO AID IN GETTING LABOR AND MATERIAL

Washington, May 21.—To speed up construction of 21 combination mine sweepers and seagoing tugs, Secretary Daniels today conferred with a delegation of 12 shipbuilders, representing all of the principal shipbuilding yards in the country.

Daniels explained the necessity of quick work on the boats and called upon the shipbuilders for aid. He assured the shipbuilders that the government would co-operate with them in procuring labor and material. Already the government has arranged to furnish certain plates and other steel needed by expediting shipment.

The new mine sweepers will be of 1000 tons. They are to be powerful boats. Although officials refused to comment, it was said the new boats might be used to co-operate with the British fleet of mine sweepers.

After their conference with Daniels the shipbuilders met Admiral Griffin, where they went over in greater detail the plans for construction of the ships. At a later conference with Daniels the method of payment for the new fleet was talked over. The government favors payment on a profit percentage basis.

Daniels said the biggest problem is procuring skilled labor sufficient to meet the demands of the heavy program.

PICK 50 LINE OFFICERS FOR ARMY STAFF

BOARD OF GENERALS SELECTING 50 MAJORS AND CAPTAINS FOR DUTY

Washington, May 21.—A board of general officers of the army, headed by Lieut. Gen. Kernan, acting assistant chief of staff, is in session today, selecting 50 majors and captains of the line to be designated for duty on the general staff. The army bill signed by the President last week removes restriction upon the number of staff officers who may be kept in Washington and the full strength of three general officers and 58 others will be available hereafter.

Additional staff officers are necessary in connection with the organization of the cantonment camps to begin in July, when the national guard is assembled in divisional units. There will be 32 camps altogether and an officer of the general staff will be assigned to each. It is regarded as possible also that a number of staff officers will be sent to the front in France, possibly with Gen. Pershing's forces, to return after a few weeks and aid in the compilation of instruction manuals for troops which will incorporate modern developments of warfare.

Later as the forces in Europe are increased a general headquarters will be necessary there with staff officers attached.

No Time for Frivolity.

The cry against overdoing war economy has been recently raised, and now comes forward a western paper with a plea for more amusements than usual as an offset to the strain and depression caused by war. "War," it says, "subjects a nation to a tremendous mental and moral strain, wholly apart from its material demands. To relieve that strain, to keep the people reasonable, buoyant and efficient, social and public diversion is an absolute necessity. Vastly more than in time of peace does the public require entertainment for the elimination of toxins caused by suspense, discomfort, worry and grief."

It is to be hoped that this view will not be generally taken by the people while the country is in the throes of war. No sane person would argue that there should be an utter absence of amusement and diversion at such a time, but to plead for what might be called "wide openness" in the amusement line when the whole country is bending under the burden of war with all its disturbing fears and actual sufferings seems to this paper to be out of order. There is the utmost inconsistency between such a program and the call for prohibition as a war measure. No more quickly can one benumb himself against the agonies of war than through the use of liquor, yet no one would contend that semi-intoxication would constitute the best safeguard against the "toxins caused by suspense, discomfort, worry and grief."

War is a sober and sobering business. All indications point to the sending to the front on foreign soil of thousands of young Americans to suffer and die for the honor and safety of their country, and it would be far from becoming for those left at home to plunge into a revel of amusement to expel from their minds the horrors of the war. How would the young feel to know that this was the course being pursued at home?

While it is true that we should not convert the period of the war into a perpetual funeral, Heaven knows there will be funerals enough—it is not true, as this western paper contends, that "vastly more than in time of peace does the public require entertainment." "Nero fiddled while Rome burned," but it is not to be believed that the American people are ready to follow his example.

Buy a Liberty Bond.

A bond is a promise to pay a sum of money at some future time.

These bonds must be bought by the people so that the United States can help to win this war.

Interest is paid on this money every six months. Interest rate on these bonds at 3½ per cent.

Back of the Liberty Bond promise to pay is all the strength, power and wealth of the United States.

Think what that means!

A bond is a thing to strive for, to prize, to keep. It represents money. You can look at it, feel of it, know that you have it—just like a five-dollar bill or a ten dollar bill, only better, because it brings you an income and should you wish to turn it into money, it can be sold at any time.

Local banks will tell you how to subscribe.

It is just as much their duty to tell you how as it is your duty to subscribe.

You can buy a $50 bond or one of $100, $500, $1,000 or more.

You can pay in installments.

Will you lend your Government $50 or as much more as you are able to help win this war?

Remember you are not giving this money. You are lending it, saving it. It is going to work for you and bring you an income and be paid back to you by your Government.

These Liberty Bonds are the safest bonds on earth.

A Rhode Island paper urges that at such a time as this people should carry their purchases home from the stores, thus saving expense to the merchants and furthering the cause of economy. The idea might be all right if the merchants would deduct the cost of delivery from the price of the goods, but would they? Old-fashioned individuals who make a practice of carrying home their purchases have never been aware of any special consideration on the part of the merchants.

A Connecticut inventor claims to have developed a device which will cause a torpedo to strike a ship a slanting blow if it strikes it at all, and also anchor the torpedo to the vessel so that it can be taken prisoner. But it will probably be some time before ships come in with strings of torpedoes reminding one of strings of fish. The submarine is a dangerous "critter" and it has not yet been overcome.

A good way for the people to meet the increasing taxes on whiskey, beer and tobacco will be to use less of those dispensable articles.

Russia has no symbol of her new estate. She has no flag. There is no national anthem. The present national flag may be due to this very lack. Perhaps Russia can obtain a better national emblem than the long-haired "Russian Hymn." But meantime that is a good enough national time to animate a lot of patriots.

Railroad Economies

(From the Springfield Republican)
The cutting out of the usual summer excursion trains by the Boston & Albany Railroad is in line with the policy of conservation of fuel and transportation facilities that is being adopted by railroads throughout the country. The excursions may well be dispensed with while the war is in progress, and this is also true in regard to a good deal of the ordinary passenger traffic. The facilities of the railroads will be taxed to their utmost in the transportation of fuel, food supplies and other necessities, and in providing troop trains when needed by the Government, and it is highly important that pleasure travel be reduced to the lowest possible limit. This summer will be a good one in which to spend one's vacation in one's own garden plot.

Both Leaders Out of Place

(From the New York World)
No more encouraging news has been received from Washington in many days than the report that Republican members of the House are becoming restive under the leadership of James R. Mann. By reason of long service and the favor of the caucus, the gentle man from Illinois, regardless of his notorious lack of sympathy with the progressive element in his party, is in a position where his views rather than those of his associates can be made to prevail.

The same thing is true of Mr. Kitchin, the leader of the Democratic majority. He gained his place also by seniority. He is so completely out of touch with his party that much of the time he surrenders his office to others, and on the rare occasions when he undertakes to act in that capacity he leads only astray. A system which produces such conditions as these is destructive of party responsibility and in some respects of government itself.

We have entered upon the greatest of wars with congressional leadership in both houses plainly hostile to the Government's policies. Senate and House alike are controlled by great majorities wholeheartedly in favor of summing up all the power of the nation to the prosecution of the struggle, but both are in the hands of so-called chief leaders who quibble, hesitate and baffle who cling obstinately to all their parochial prejudices and who meet the greatest of issues with only the smallest of issues.

It is to be hoped that the progressive Republicans of the House will succeed in their effort to remove James R. Mann from the leadership of their party, but there will be no true triumph of the representative principle unless the Democrats in like manner retire Claude Kitchin.

Bonds As Class Memorials

(From the Minneapolis Journal news columns)

Framed Liberty Loan bonds will grace the halls of the Minneapolis schools this year, instead of new class memorials left by the 1917 classes, and they will remain there, according to present plans, until they mature, when the bonds and interest will be used to buy memorials that will tell of the patriotic service of the graduates.

Superintendent B. H. Jackson, who has asked each school to buy at least one bond, asked the senior classes to use their memorial funds for bonds. The class officers said they were sure the members would be glad to accede to the request.

In some years as much as $500 is spent for statuary or pictures that are left in the five high schools.

Ammunition in 1863 and in 1917

(From the Kansas City Star)
In six weeks the British army have fired two hundred thousand tons of ammunition in France. The official estimate of the ammunition by both the Union and Confederate armies at Gettysburg is 560 tons, including the missiles hurled from Lee's 150 guns on Seminary Ridge across to Meade's center on Cemetery Ridge, the most terrific bombardment of the Civil War. The British, therefore, have used 350 times as much ammunition as was fired at Gettysburg enough to have kept that great battle going at the same rate for three years. The nation trusts that the War Department is figuring on the basis of 1917 rather than the basis of 1863 in providing ammunition for the new army.

Putting the Spurs to Them

(From the Springfield Republican)
One bond of unity in Germany is underscored in the significant remark of the Tageszeitung in regard to the new war loan: "Assurances by the Government can only be given in the expectation of a large war indemnity." On the one hand the German people are being systematically encouraged to expect an indemnity, and on the other they are as systematically taught that without such indemnity they collectively and individually face financial ruin. It is a powerful argument which the German Government is using as unscrupulously as a get-rich-quick financier.

Alas, He Is No Business Man

(From the New York World)
Such opposition to the appointment of Herbert C. Hoover as Food Controller as has developed in the United States Senate is based on the plea that he is not a business man, which, alas, is true. By profession he is a mining engineer, and he knows so little about business that, being in Europe when the desperate condition of Belgium was revealed, he abandoned his profession and voluntarily organized the greatest and the most efficient relief work ever known in human history.

Mr. Hoover disbursed tens of millions of dollars, fed millions of people, allayed the suspicions of conquerors and conquered and was so successful in all respects that when Germany, the super-efficient, was compelled to put the empire on rations, it went to him for advice and instruction. If, like most members of the Senate, he had only been a politician or a lawyer, there is no telling what prodigies of mismanagement and distribution he might have accomplished.

Coming with no better record than this before the experienced captains of industry who dominate the Senate, what can such a man expect? He has no backing but his record, no standing anywhere except as he is acclaimed by humanity, and, of course, no business credentials that would get him past the doorkeeper of a caucus or convention. Knowledge of all this at the right time might have made the starving population of Belgium and Northern France choose death in preference to relief at the hands of one so poorly equipped for business, as the Senate understands business.

MARINES APT AT TRENCH WARFARE

Expeditionary Force of Col. Doyen Composed of Seasoned Veterans.

Col. Charles Augustus Doyen, who will command the 2700 marines who are going to France, as a part of the fighting division under Maj.-Gen. Pershing, is one of the best known officers of the corps. He is a veteran of the Philippine campaigns, of the operations in various parts of the West Indies, and in other parts of the world. Until his designation as commander of the Marine regiment, which will accompany Pershing over seas, Col. Doyen was in command of the Washington, D. C. marine barracks.

Col. Doyen is a native of New Hampshire, and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1877. He is a close friend of Admiral Sims, the commander of the American naval forces in European waters, and during his few years at sea he and Sims were shipmates on the old corvette Swatara. Sims was then an ensign and Doyen a second lieutenant of marines. Col. Doyen has long been considered one of the best disciplinarians in the corps. He is an expert when it comes to machine gun warfare, and he is one of the officers who has had a prominent part in the organization of the machine gun units of the Marine Corps, which are today on a par with the best organizations in the world.

The 2700 officers and men who will go to France with Col. Doyen will be organized into companies of 250 men. The command will be one almost entirely composed of veterans, and it is understood that among the force will be at least one company each of grenadier throwers and another which will operate the trench mortars. A great many of the men who will be under Col. Doyen are veterans of the Dominican, Haitian and Vera Cruz operations, and in this connection it may be recalled that during the two years the marines have been maintaining order in Haiti and Santo Domingo they have received almost daily training in trench warfare as it is fought today in Europe.

The Marine Corps which now for the first time goes to battle on European soil, was organized in June, 1775. The first battle ever fought by the United States Navy, was fought by the corps when in 1777 a battalion of 3300 "soldiers of the sea," under command of Major Samuel Nichols was landed from the fleet in the Bahamas and proceeded to assault and capture the British forts on the island of New Providence. They fought under John Paul Jones in the battle between the Ranger and the Drake, in which Lieut. Wallingford, their commander, was killed at the head of his men, and again in the great battle between the Bonhomme Richard and the Serapis the marines lost in killed and wounded 49 men out of 143 who were on the Bonhomme Richard with Admiral Jones.

In the Tripoli War of 1803 the marines led in all the land fighting, one of the feats of the corps of that day being a forced march of over 600 miles through the desert from Alexandria to Derne, in North Africa. At Derne the marines assaulted and captured the Tripoli fortifications, hoisted down the flag of Tripoli and hoisted the Stars and Stripes.

In the war of 1812 the first officer killed was Lieut. Bush, commander of the Marine force on the famous old frigate Constitution. In every naval engagement that marked the progress of that war the marines bore a leading part. On shore they also won fame in that war and were with Jackson at the battle of New Orleans. They fought through the Mexican war of the late forties from start to finish and figured in the capture of Vera Cruz, Tampico, Frontera, and the other east coast ports which fell to the Americans in that war.

The marines were the first American troops to enter Mexico City, and it was Maj. Twigg and Reynolds, both of the marines, who led the Americans who stormed and captured Chapultepec Castle on Sept. 13, 1847, a feat which accounts for the first line in the world-famous battle song of the United States Marines, which runs "From the halls of the Montezumas to the shores of Tripoli," etc.

In 1853 the marines were fighting in the Fiji Islands, and the lesson they taught the Islanders is responsible for the fact that the Fijians have done very little fighting since that time. The marines led the landing parties which, under Commodore Perry, opened Japan to civilization and world power in 1852-3, and it was the marines who went to Happers Ferry, Va., just before the outbreak of the Civil War, to attempt the rescue of John Brown.

In the Civil War the marines were at Fort Sumter with Anderson; they were on the Monitor when it fought the Merrimack; they were at Mobile with Farragut; in fact, there was not a fight by sea during that struggle in which they did not take part. They also fought on land and were with the Union forces at Bull Run.

In 1852 the marines were back in Africa and were ashore at Alexandria preserving order and preventing pillage. In 1853 they were on the isthmus of Panama keeping the isthmus open for trade; in August, 1855, they were on duty in Valparaiso, Chile,

NEW HAMPSHIRE MAN OFFERS SECRETARY DANIELS IDEA TO COMBAT SUBMARINES

Professor Edmund R. Angell of Derry who is putting his patriotism to good uses, has conceived the vital principles of a submarine destroyer which he believes can be perfected and made most efficient and deadly, as a means of putting the U-boats out of commission. He feels so certain of the value of the invention that he has sent a letter to Secretary Daniels. The following is a copy of the document:

Derry, N. H., May 15, 1917.

Hon. Josephus Daniels, Sec.

United States Navy.

"I have an invention which seems reasonably certain to be a full answer to the submarine, a complete antidote for the German submarine peril. The invention is an improvement of John Eliasson's Monitor, the Yankee cheese box in its adaptation to submarine warfare. The body of this vessel is long, comparatively narrow and shallow. It has a run at each end. It is divided into several water-tight compartments by partitions from side to side. Its deck is nearly level with the water. Cross-beams like arms, extend from both sides the entire length of the ship, and sufficiently far from the sides to withstand torpedo explosions without injury to the body of the ship. Below the ends of these crossbeams and supported by them are hollow wooden floats, like a jacket, or false sides of the ship. The false sides extend below the water only so far as necessary to buoy and prevent undue rolling of the craft. Below these wooden sides extend strong torpedo nets of steel. One or more, Eliasson's torpedoes project above the deck, only just enough to afford working attitude for the guns. The gunners stand on the floor in the hold of the ship. A conning tower and wireless equipment are also provided. A powerful engine and propeller and other necessary ship equipment are also provided.

The operation and advantages of this craft are too obvious to need explanation. The merit of the Monitor was demonstrated in the Civil War, and with this adaptation of it to the present need, it will be the exterminator of the submarine. Keep a sufficient number of these exterminators on guard duty along the shiproads to Liverpool and Havre and elsewhere as needed and the attacks of the German submarine in this war are numbered.

"I offer this to the navy in defense of our country."

Very respectfully yours,

Edmund R. Angell.

"P. S. I invite public criticism and suggestions for improving this device. I want the public who read this to unite with me patriotically to perfect an instrument for the destruction of the U-boat. Write to me. Point out all the weak part of the device and add improvements."

M. R. A.

protecting American interests, and in the latter months of the same year another force was in the Arctic putting an end to seal poaching in Behring Sea. The marines in 1894 landed at Honolulu for the protection of Americans, and from 1894 to 1897 other detachments were ashore in Korea and China seeing to it that Americans were properly cared for and the open door was kept ajar. In the Spanish War of 1898, the marines defended Guantanamo, Cuba, against a force of 6000 Spaniards, and in May of the same year, they were ordered ashore by Admiral Dewey to hold the fort and station at Cavite, which fell to Dewey in the Battle of Manila Bay.

In the Boxer uprising in 1900 the marines were the first Americans landed at Tien Tsin, and they took part in the hardest fighting that marked the allied advance for the rescue of the foreign legations in Peking. Again in 1903 they were landed in Korea to protect the American Legation at Seoul, and in 1904 they were again in Cuba, adding the army in the pacification of the island Republic. They saw to it that the Panamanians held a fair election in 1908, and a year later the marines went to Nicaragua, fought a campaign with the rebels in that country, gave them a sound thrashing, and restored order, which they have maintained to this day.

The marines did the biggest part of the fighting that resulted in the capture of Vera Cruz in April, 1914, and when that job was over they went to Haiti and Santo Domingo to make revolutions things of the past in those islands. It is from the veterans of many of these later campaigns that the men who are going to France under Col. Doyen have been drawn.

Wants Fountains Opened.
Editor—Why in the name of humanity are the horse drinking fountains still shut off by order of the Board of Health and horses allowed to suffer for a drink? The horse affected with the glanders is said to have been killed and no others being affected with the disease why not open the drinking places and end the suffering of the animals?

METRIC SYSTEM BEING AGITATED

HIGH PRICES FOR HORSE FLESH

WAR REVENUE BILL

(By Associated Press)
Washington, May 21.—Hope of passing the war revenue bill within the next two days was not strong among house leaders today, particularly because the ways and means committee was still toying over the question of higher second class mail rates proposed by the bill. Even after agreement on these rates, the committee must pass on the provisions for taxing advertisements, automobiles and musical instruments before the house itself can make much progress.

WILL HELP WOUNDED SOLDIERS

(By Associated Press)
Liverpool, May 22.—Munuel, former king of Portugal has just been appointed by the British Red Cross society as head of its section of Orthopedics, relating to the treatment of deformities in wounded soldiers. The former king has for several years been interested in work of this character. He is now engaged in a tour of inspection with Colonel Robert Jones, inspector-general of orthopedics in the British army, of all the institutions in Great Britain where wounded soldiers are receiving treatment of this character.

One of the largest of these institutions is in Liverpool, and Munuel spent three days there devoting one day to the surgical wards and operating rooms and acting as an assistant at an operation in a hospital.

William T. Patillo

The death of William T. Patillo, one of the well known and highly respected colored citizens of this city, occurred at his home, 61 Manning street, Monday evening at 7 o'clock after a lingering illness.

He was born in Oxford, N. C., in 1872 the son of Rev. W. A. and Mary I. (Hart) Patillo. He was educated in the public schools of that town and received his high school at Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C. He came to this city about twenty-five years ago and entered the employ of the late J. H. Hutchinson. After his death he was employed by Benjamin Green as porter in his apothecary, which position he held up until one year ago when he was obliged to retire on account of ill health.

He was a member of the Pearl Street Peoples Baptist church and was president of the Peoples Mutual Benefit Society. He leaves a wife and one daughter to mourn his loss who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

JAPANESE NAPKINS AROUSE SUSPICION

Bern, Switzerland, May 21.—The Swiss government is anxious to know why Germany wants huge quantities of Japanese crepe paper napkins. German agents throughout Switzerland have been placing orders for large quantities, paying for them in napkins of their own manufacture and money which alone equals the value of the Japanese variety. Whether this is some new Teutonic intrigue involving the far east or whether the Japanese variety has been found valuable for manufacture of explosives is a problem which the Swiss secret service is working out.

EXETER

Exeter, May 22.—Rev. David W. Downs of Newfields yesterday was congratulated on his 79th birthday, the day being quietly spent at his home there. Mr. Downs three years ago retired from the New Hampshire Methodist conference after having completed half a century of the ministry. For over 40 years he was a member of the New Hampshire conference. He began preaching in 1855 in Wisconsin, and at the breaking out of the Civil war enlisted in the Massachusetts cavalry, going out with a non attached company, but later was with General Butler at New Orleans. At the close of the war he took up his preaching, and has held many pastorates in the state, retiring at Newfields in 1915, which was also one of his early churches. He makes his home in that town. Mr. Downs was born in North Berwick, Me., and received his early education at the Berwick academy.

Monday night was "Neighbors' Night" at the regular meeting of the Gilmor grange, the program being furnished by Winifred Grange of Stratford, and Kensington grange of Kensington.

Deputy Sheriff Wilbur B. Shaw officiated yesterday at the session of superior court owing to the illness of Deputy Frank O. Tilton of Exeter.

Christine Hogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Hogan of Newfields was taken to the Exeter cottage hospital yesterday for treatment for pneumonia.

Miss Nellie Dowse of Kensington is a patient at the Exeter hospital.

William Catkin of Washington has been called by the death of his father, Charles H. Catkin.

John J. Seamon, son of Attorney John Seamon, left Sunday afternoon for Concord, enroute for Plattsburg, N. Y., where he will become a member of the training camp there as a representative of Co. 3, Coast Artillery Co. It is now practically assured that Exeter's track team will meet the winners of the Boston interscholastic, although the date has not been decided. The Boston authorities want June 5, but Exeter would prefer June 2, and somewhat the rules are not fixed.

Trainer George Connor will go to Boston on Thursday to make the arrangements. It is a rule among the Boston schools that an athlete shall enter only one event, and one who has a diploma from another school, shall not compete. Exeter, however, agrees to the age limit of 20 years.

This will not affect Exeter's team much as most of the promising athletes are under 20 years. It will furnish a good day's outing for the Boston boys who will come down on one of the early morning trains, and be the guests of the Exeter Athletic association, affording them an opportunity to look over the athletic plant here. In a measure, the meet will be to Exeter what the college interscholastic meet is to the college—it may be the means of some of the athletes deciding to finish up their preparatory course here. The arrangement of the meet has done much to revive the interest in track sports here.

DARTMOUTH MEN ENTER SERVICE

Many Athletes to Fight in the Country's Cause.

Hanover, May 22.—Dartmouth with an enrollment of something like 1,400 has already seen more than 500 men take up service with the government or go directly across the ocean to serve with the Dartmouth ambulance units which went to the front several weeks ago. Always in the first ranks the athletes are to be found. Captain Dussossoy of the 1917 football eleven was one of the first to volunteer to go to France with the hospital corps and with him have gone Gile, the center of the 1916 eleven, Kennedy, manager of the 1917 team; Edwards a star half-back last year, and Hopkins, Green and Jordan who were stars on last year's freshman eleven.

The naval reserve has claimed Gerrish captain of the 1916 eleven; Tyler, a sterling tackle; Cannell, the sensational quarterback; Cogswell, an end; Poole, a back; Hensley, a tackle, and Youngstrom, a guard; while Gerrish, another back is in the ordnance department making guns. Of the 1916 varsity eleven only two line men and one regular back are left in college.

In the other sports the athletes have been none the less ready to answer the call. Earl Thompson the freshman hurdles champion from California, has withdrawn to go farming, while Hobbs who smashed an indoor hurdling record last winter is in France with the ambulance corps.

Harry Worthington, captain of the track team and intercollegiate broad jump champion, is in the ordnance department; Duffy, a promising miler, is in the naval reserve; while Allison, a distance man is in France. Plattsburg has taken Chase, a good half-miler; Sabadie, a football end; Emery, an end; Smith, manager of the track team; Holbrook, a track man; Paine, first baseman on the varsity nine; Root, a good broad jumper; Burns, the tackle and hammer thrower, and Darrell Tremblay, a hurler, former New York interscholastic champion. Sisson, captain of the baseball team, is in France with the hospital unit, and Johnson, a pole vaulter is in the naval reserve.

LIMITATIONS OF UNDERSEA RAIDERS

Rear Admiral Sims Tells Where Submarines Fail.

Those who know the energy and skill of Rear Adm. William S. Sims, U. S. N., and the effectiveness of his methods are confident that now he is in charge of the U. S. destroyers operating with the Allied fleet, he will be able to solve the submarine problem which has proved such an alarming menace not only to England but the whole democratic world.

His friends recall his success in bringing about that revision of naval target practice by which he was able to change the 3 p. m. of losses after he had been placed in charge of the destroyer flotilla and later in command of the United States submarines.

At the time he was commanding the new superdreadnaught Nevada he said to the House Naval Committee, before whom he was called on to testify regarding the submarine:—

"I have found an almost complete misapprehension of what a submarine is and what it can do. They were not aware, for example, that a submarine can only steam for a short distance underneath the water, depending upon its size, from, say, 40 to 50 or 60 miles, and that, having steamed that distance it must come to the surface and stay three or four or five hours, according to the size, to recharge its batteries.

"A submarine can not operate safely at all in the presence of surface boats of the enemy in less than a certain depth of water. The submarine itself, practically independent of its size, whether it is of 300 tons or 1000 tons, draws about the same amount of water, from the bottom of its keel to the top of the periscope, usually about 10-odd feet—they do not differ more than two or three feet and the consequence is that in the presence of enemy surface boats the submarine must operate in water deep enough to enable her to go down to a considerable distance without striking the bottom; that is, she must have water of from 60 to 70 feet depth. The speed of a submarine under the water is slow—anywhere from eight to ten knots for the average submarine.

"The consequence is that a naval force that commands the surface of the sea can counteract almost entirely the attack of submarines, because of submarine cannot go very far under the surface. She must do most of her traveling on the surface. She can be seen from a very considerable distance from the high decks of ships, and if she is seen and there are a considerable number of surface craft of the enemy in her neighborhood she is immediately in very great danger.

"For example, a submarine is seen in a certain position at 6 o'clock in the morning, and that information is flashed out on the wireless, giving her latitude and longitude. Then it is known that by 7 o'clock in the morning she cannot be outside a certain circle drawn, we will say, with a radius of eight to ten miles from that point, and at eight o'clock in the morning she cannot be outside of a certain other larger circle, so that vessels stationed in the neighborhood that can be aided in by wireless, form themselves in a line and sweep across the circle and that submarine has to proceed under water, for having been seen, she must immediately go down to avoid the gunfire from the vessel which first sighted her, and must either move under the water or else go down to the bottom and rest there, which she can do only if the water is not over 200 feet deep with the hope that they will not find her.

"If she travels along under the water with periscope submerged, she disturbs the surface of the water, the regular form of the waves on the surface, by passing along underneath the surface, so that you can often see this disturbance proceeding like a wave, and it can from the high bridge of a ship, or from a hydroplane, be particularly well seen. Then two destroyers of the enemy will go across ahead of the submarine's 'wake' and throw out a net, and, of course, the submarine cannot know that as she cannot see, and if she runs into this net, from that time on her capture is certain, because the net itself is made for the purpose of keeping track of her.

"We did not find out for a long time what those nets are like, and I think it is necessary that it should be understood in order to realize the great danger, submarines run in the presence of light surface craft. The net is a very light one made of wire rope, probably not as big as a lead pencil, probably not more than a quarter of an inch in diameter. The meshes of the net are 12 or 15 feet square. On the top of this net are floats and on the bottom are little weights. The moment this net is in the water in front of the submarine, the floats keep the net on the surface and the weights keep the bottom down, and if she runs into it her bow goes into one of the meshes and the net falls back around her, and it may foul her propeller or may not. The submarine proceeds, the floats will trail on the surface, so that even if she dives deeper she leaves these on the surface, her trail is plain, and there is no difficulty then in capturing her. She knows when she runs into a net that her capture is practically certain. If she goes down 200 feet the floats of the net are still on the surface.

"The submarine, the admiral continued, 'has no idea that destroyers around and when these run in and begin to pay the net out in front of the submarine's wake, the submarine comes along and sticks her nose in one of the meshes of the net, and from that time on her position is shown on the surface by the floats of the net. She must eventually come up, and when she does she will be captured or destroyed. The net is coiled like a seine and is kept in a trough on the after deck of the destroyer. You pay it out and away it goes, the pressure of the water pulling it out. It is not difficult to handle. These are only some of the means they have used on the other side to counteract the attack of the submarines, or to capture or destroy them. They have proved so dangerous to submarines that the latter do not venture into certain guarded areas at all.

ULSTER FIGHTING PLAN FOR IRISH HOME RULE

Lord Landsdown Says the Section Will Never Consent to Being Disregarded in Conference or Convention.--Lloyd George Speaks Before Commons on Plan.

(By Associated Press)
London, May 21.—For the first time in its history the destiny of Ireland is placed entirely in the hands of Irishmen. Lloyd George has already announced to the House of Commons the plans for the holding of a constitutional convention composed entirely of Irishmen and they will proceed to draft a constitution which will be submitted to them when completed.

Lord Landsdown, whip of the Irish Nationalists Party on the House of Commons, said that Ulster would fight against Home Rule and was ready to protest against the formation of a convention when six divisions of Ulster were not to be represented. The convention will be composed of leaders of Irish history including the clergy, humble workers in the ranks of toil, politicians, educators and even a number of the members of the revolution a year or more ago. If home rule for Ireland will result, Ireland will be free before the end of the year and his life dream realized.

WHAT DRAFT PROCLAMATION MEANS.

President Wilson's proclamation calling for all males in the United States between the ages of 21 and 30 inclusive, to register on June 5 for the draft, means that

All males of no matter what nationality, who are 21 years of age either before or on June 5, and who have not reached their 31st birthday must go to the voting booth in their precinct between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. and register.

Sickness or any disability does not exempt men from registering. If persons are so disabled that they cannot present themselves for registration they must do so by agent.

If a man is 20 years of age on June 5 or after, he is exempt from registering.

If a man is 21 years of age on June 5 or after he is exempt too.

Failing to register means a year's imprisonment.

Aiding anyone to avoid registering also means imprisonment.

When registration is completed the President will exempt those he wishes to stay at home, and he will also select those he desires for the army.

MORE WORKERS ARE NEEDED AT THE HOSPITAL

SMALL BAND OF WOMEN ARE AC-COMPLISHING MUCH BY THEIR INDUSTRY IN MAKING SUPPLIES

In these times of urgency, the women of Portsmouth have risen to the occasion and are making themselves fit to do their bit for preparedness. They have formed themselves into classes for Home Nursing, First Aid, Surgical Dressings, and Dietetics. Large numbers meet in the old Court House Mondays and Wednesdays to sew for the Red Cross. Thursdays the women of the Navy League meet at Mrs. Heffenger's to sew and knit garments to supply Navy Ships that are training recruits for the service.

More and more women are needed for this work, but in the midst of all this activity, do not neglect our Portsmouth Hospital. It is in great need of just such supplies, to keep up its efficiency and prepare it to meet the demands that war may make upon it. It is to be a base hospital during the war.

A small band of women have met in the Nurses' Home at ten o'clock every Friday morning, through the winter and spring, making surgical shirts, bandages, sponges, and other necessities and have accomplished a good deal of work and have been of the greatest help to the hospital. Last Friday only two women came. They worked industriously, and kept the sewing machine busy, but more willing hands are needed to keep up the daily supply of garments and surgical dressings and make the hospital prepared for emergencies. A cordial welcome will be given every Friday morning to every one coming to help in this good work.

COLLEGES ABANDON ALL TRACK ATHLETICS BECAUSE OF WAR

New York, May 22.—No better illustration of the effect of the war upon the college athletics can be cited than is contained in the announcement that the Intercollegiate track and field championships, even in the form of patriotic games, have been abandoned. Not since the initial meet in 1877 has there been a break in these national titular contests. Now after a period of forty-one years the season of 1917 will be blank in the records and history of the Intercollegiate association of Amateur Athletes of America.

No other form of college athletics or sports has ever had such a broad and continuous record in its own particular field of activity in this country. For this reason if no other, the devotee of track and field competition has been hoping against hope that the games would be continued, even though in a curtailed manner, for the present season at least.

In order to appreciate the record of consistency of the I. C. A. A. A. A. it is necessary to go back to July 21, 1876, when the first championship meet of the Association was held at Saratoga, N. Y., with Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Bowdoin, Dartmouth, Columbia, Williams and City College of New York among the competing institutions. Since that date forty-one meets have been held without a break at various points in the East including New York, Philadelphia and Cambridge.

During this period thirty-seven colleges or universities have been represented by athletes who have won at least one place or point. The list includes almost every institution of the East, Michigan, of the Middle West, and California and Stanford of the Pacific coast.

While it is impossible to state with accuracy the number of athletes who have striven for track and field honors in these meets it is estimated that the total would run into many thousands. In championships won Harvard leads with thirteen; Yale is second with nine; Pennsylvania third with eight; Cornell fourth with seven; Columbia fifth with three and Princeton last with one; the Tigers taking the first meet in 1876.

QUIET RETURNS ON BATTLE FRONTS OF BRITISH FORCES

(By Associated Press)

Another period of quietness has settled over the lines as is the case each time when the British have accomplished their objective. The loss includes the whole section of the battle front between Arras and Queant. The British are resting unharmed by the Germans, the official reports issued last night stated. The British have secured control of all of the old section of the Hindenburg line with the exception of about 2000 yards when the Germans recaptured in the fighting on Sunday. The British will have to renew their offensive on this section of the Bullecourt section, it is supposed.

On the Southern end of the line held by the French troops quiet also reigns with the exception of artillery duels. The Germans on Sunday occupied a section of their trenches, won by a counter, which was taken by the Germans in Saturday's fighting. This section was later dislodged and driven back with severe losses.

In the Austro-Italian battle section the Austrians are again trying to throw back the enemy which has been gaining for the past week. The Austrians have thrown an attack against Trentino but were repulsed. Vienna states in an official note that little of their holdings were disturbed and that the greater part of the Italian force was thrown back.

COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE MOVING PICTURES

(By Associated Press)

Paris, May 22.—The minister of the Interior has named a commission to investigate the production of moving pictures and ascertain how they may be regulated and their standards improved. A number of senators, deputies and government officials will cooperate on this commission with the police officials and authorities of the Department of Public Instruction. This action is taken in response to an active campaign against some productions declared by critics to be morally demoralizing such as mystery and detective films, and against others generally admitted to be so dull and in spite as to constitute a swindle.

The quality of films produced in France, critics agree, has steadily declined since the beginning of the war, both in plot and in execution. Sensational serial films have provoked epidemics of crime among the youth of the country, while the others have generally been devoid of merit.

American films as a rule, have stood far above all others, yet serious attacks have been made upon some of the serial adventure productions imported from the United States.

The desire of the government is to create a censorship that will raise the standard of moving pictures and make them a healthy educational medium, instead of a vehicle of demoralization.

MR. PAGE ADVISES AMERICAN COMMISSION TO ITALY

(By Associated Press)

Rome, May 22.—Sending of an American commission to Italy to ascertain how best to establish political and commercial relations between this country and the United States has been advised by the American ambassador, Thomas Nelson Page. It is stated here, Mr. Page has been studying the opportunities for the development of trade between the two countries.

If the United States does now now improve the political and business relations with this country, it will not be Italy's fault. Indication of the eagerness of Italy to meet the United States more than half way has been shown in the large number of articles printed in the newspapers lately not only urging but demanding that the Italian government voluntarily presented by the entrance of the United States into the war to cement these international relations.

Italy was more than three weeks later than the British and French governments in appointing a commission to go to the United States to confer regarding the war help to be extended, particularly in the way of new loans, and during this period important newspapers like the Messaggero of Rome, and the Corriere della Sera, of Milan, printed a series of articles attacking the ministry for its slowness in creating the commission.

FOREIGN MISSIONS LITTLE HANDICAPPED

Dallas, Tex., May 21.—Work of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church has been less handicapped by the European war than any one would have ventured to believe at the beginning of the gigantic struggle. The Board of Foreign Missions in its annual report of the Presbyterian General Assembly here today. The report is for the year ending March 31, 1917.

"The actual result," said the report, "has not this year touched any of the mission fields of the Board, except in Africa, Syria and Persia. Influences of the war at home have promoted the missionary spirit and faith."

"All the missionary work in Africa, Syria and Persia remained at their posts except those who were obliged to return because of their health."

"In Africa there have been repeated calls from the people south of the Congo, for Bible readers but the missionary force has been so low that it has not been possible for a man to visit that field and it did not seem wise to send native workers unless their efforts could be under supervision in spite of the war and, however, there have been rapid developments from the work of a smaller force than has operated for years in the African field."

"Persia has been the mission field most seriously harassed during the last year by actual war. The problem of the time and strength of the missionaries in Persia and Tabriz, our West Persian missionaries have disbanded, as representatives of the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, approximately half a million dollars within two years; thousands have been fed, and clothed and kept from freezing and ransoms have been paid for the life and release of the Russian Orthodox Bishop and of many girls and young women."

"During the year the blockade of the Syrian coast has become more rigid and only a few letters and postal cards from missionaries have reached this country, and then after long delay. The situation was still more compli-ated when diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States were severed."

Summarizing the work done in other parts of the foreign field the report said that in China there was a spirit of courage and faith and that although the work might be handicapped by lack of suitable evangelistic workers, the church in China was awakening in Japan the evangelistic campaigns were reported to have been fruitful. In Korea the situation was somewhat unsettled because the Japanese have been enforcing laws which involved great chances and the Koreans chafed under the innovations; in the Philippines the Silliman Institute at Dumaguete has an attendance of more than 800 boys and young men and last year had to turn away four hundred others for lack of accommodations; in Siam the mission work will soon be aided by the establishment of a new station at Chiang Rung, just north of the China boundary, and the evangelistic work is to be strengthened in Bangkok, the capital; in India a new spirit is awakening, evangelistic work has been fruitful, and there is an increasing demand for larger powers of self-government and the education of women. Temperance and marriage reform are subjects of consideration among the educated classes; political unrest has interfered with the work in Mexico, but Yucatan missionaries remained at their posts and are carrying on the work in the Central part of the country.

The report said that in the fiscal year just closed thirteen hundred and fifty-three American missionaries were busy in twenty-seven foreign missions, carrying on the work from 170 principal stations aided by more than six thousand native helpers of all kinds, from teachers to ordained preachers.

"The contribution membership of the Presbyterian Church on the mission field," said the report, "numbers 161,176. The Sunday school membership is 233,091. In 2,063 schools of all grades, from kindergartens to colleges 74,429 pupils received instruction. Patients to the number of 75,971 were treated by 118 doctors (men and women) in 176 hospitals and dispensaries. The output of the ten printing establishments maintained by the mission board amounted to 32,701,182 pages. Contributions from native churches totaled $741,304."

"Receipts of the Board for the year were $2,525,569. This was more than the appropriations at the beginning of the fiscal year. (April, 1916) called for but the exigencies of the European war and the consequent high price of silver through the world caused large and unforeseen expenditures and a call was issued for a war emergency fund and a similar fund will be necessary next year in addition to the regular appropriations."

NAVY BUILDING PROGRAM HAS BEEN AWARDED

SECRETARY DANIELS URGES THE BROADENING OF PROHIBITION LEGISLATION TO INCLUDE NAVAL MEN.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, May 21.—All naval vessels authorized by Congress have been contracted for with the exception of three dreadnaughts and a few minor auxiliaries. Secretary Daniels announced tonight. A large addition to the program has also been provided for in the building of seagoing submarines. Chasers by the hundreds and twenty-four seagoing tugs of 1000-ton register to be used both as tugboats and mine sweepers. The thirty-eight submarines of more than 200 tons are already placed, the Secretary said, twenty-four with the Electric Boat Company, four with the Lake Torpedo Boat company and ten at the Portsmouth navy yard.

Secretary Daniels addressed a letter to Speaker of the House Champ Clark this afternoon urging that legislation which prohibits the sale of liquor to soldiers in uniform embodied in the army appropriation bill be extended to include the men of the navy.

THREE NEW POSTS MAY BE ADDED TO THE CABINET

SECRETARIES FOR FOOD, MUNITIONS AND TRANSPORTATION ARE CONTEMPLATED

Washington, May 21.—President Wilson's cabinet will soon be increased by three new portfolios—secretary of food administration, secretary of munitions and supplies, and a secretary of transportation—according to official belief here today.

Action by the Senate in limiting the powers of the council of national defense so that much of the work now being done by the advisory committee of the council will be shifted back directly to the shoulders of the cabinet has made new posts in the cabinet imperative officials declare.

The Senate doesn't like the council of national defense. Its reasons are political. Members of the advisory committee were appointed by the President without the traditional "advice and consent of the Senate."

Responsibility on Cabinet
As a result an amendment was adopted in the urgent deficiency bill stating that the authority, carefully designated to the council, under the act creating it.

should not be exceeded because of the war.

This has placed the burden of real constructive work back on the cabinet and the advisory committee of the council is limited again to the work of co-ordinating—a strictly advisory capacity.

Secretary of War Baker as a result, is left not only with the work of raising an army but also with the work of raising supplies and munitions for the army.

"This is not as it should be at all," one of the foremost officials of the government told the United Press. "Secretary Baker has all he can do to take care of the army work itself. The work of mobilizing munitions should be turned over to another executive."

Daniels Also Overworked
"The same is true of Secretary Daniels. The work of getting supplies and munitions must be centralized. So must the problem of transportation. This can be done only by placing men with the same authority as present cabinet members in charge of the work."

The post of "secretary of food administration" has practically been created in the appointment by President Wilson of Herbert Hoover. While Hoover prefers to serve without pay, there is a bill now pending in the Senate creating the very post he now fills, giving him the authority he needs and the same salary and scope of work as a member of the cabinet.

Men under consideration for post of secretary of munitions and transportation are also men who prefer to work for no salary and as a result the new additions to the "war cabinet"—created, of course, only for the purpose of war—may all be non-salaried officials.

BURROUGHS-SULLIVAN

Our friends, the enemies, seem to have developed an enormous respect for the memory of the late Cyrus A. Sullivan—a respect and a consideration for whom they were very chary of expressing while Cyrus A. Sullivan was alive. Patrick H. Sullivan who would step into Sullivan's shoes, admittedly worked into his address accepting the nomination an appreciation of his late fellow citizen and fellow member of the bar.

Those who have been selected to do his campaigning for him are likewise careful to say nice things of "The Tall Pine."

But what he says and what they say have little weight in the community. They are of less account than floral tributes at a funeral. They may mean something or nothing.

And in this case the panegyrics and platitudes of Patrick H. Sullivan and his strikers mean rather less than nothing, and everybody knows it. And why?

Because they are belied by every word and act of Sullivan and his friends, when they might have done Sullivan some good.

They are crocodile tears that these wretched shed, and they are hollow words that they utter, for when Sullivan was alive neither P. H. nor any other Democrat, either shed tears or talked sweet nothings in his behalf, but in every campaign that he made against them in all the time he was a candidate for congress, these same recent converts to an administration of Sullivan, fought against him, talked against him, and what is more to the present purpose, voted against him.

We have no idea that P. H. or any of his bunch expect the people of this district to take either him or them seriously. The voters of the first New Hampshire are onto their plying.

Every one of them knows that the Democratic candidate realizes that there is no issue which can be conjured up that will entitle him to an election to congress.

Then realize that the district is naturally Republican and that the only hope there is for them is based upon a diversion of naturally Republican votes.

Never having voted for Sullivan themselves they hope to somehow prejudice enough Republicans against the present candidate by an appeal to men who did vote for Sullivan.

But in this scheme they not only fail but ought to fail.

It is true enough that one time Mr. Burroughs was a candidate for the nomination to congress against Mr. Sullivan.

had a right to be such a candidate.

Mr. Sullivan himself never doubted or denied the right.

Mr. Sullivan held the position longer than any other man who ever was in congress from New Hampshire.

He felt that he could hold it no longer than a majority of "the boys" wanted him to have it.

And he found no fault because Mr. Burroughs entered the lists against him.

When the primary was over and the polls showed that he had won, not only over Mr. Burroughs but over other candidates, Mr. Burroughs loyally supported and voted for the nominee.

And Patrick H. Sullivan and all the bunch who are backing him voted against Mr. Sullivan, as they had done before and have done since.

No real political friend of Mr. Sullivan will fail to note and act upon the difference between the practical action of Mr. Burroughs and Mr. Sullivan regarding Sullivan.

Mr. Burroughs never failed to vote for Mr. Sullivan.

Patrick H. Sullivan never failed to vote against him.

And all friends of "The Tall Pine" know the difference, and will act accordingly. —Manchester Mirror.

WHEAT PRICES ARE ERRATIC

Chicago, May 21.—Comparative inactivity in the wheat market today sent grain down three to seven cents at the opening, but it recovered slightly later on covering by shorts.

July opened seven cents under Saturday's close at $2.51, but later went to $2.57. September was off three at the opening, but later gained one to $2.15. Under existing conditions, with trading limited, violent fluctuations are expected by traders.

NOW EASIER TO GET INTO U. S. ARMY.

The urgent need of men in the ranks of the United States army has caused several changes to be made in the qualifications for applicants for enlistment. Formerly only the men were accepted in the army who had out their first citizenship papers, but now any man may enlist who can speak or understand English, with the exception of German aliens. This will make it possible for a large number of men in the country to do their bit, who have not been able to do so up to the present time, because they did not have their first papers out.

The official orders to the effect that enlisted men in the army will receive $30 per month have also been received and it is expected that there will be a large number of applicants from now on, for many men have been waiting because the pay seemed so small.

Also, a ruling on the age limit has been received to the effect that no more applicants who are under 18 years of age will be accepted for enlistment in the army. Another notice has been sent to the recruiting station concerning the fact that the enlistment section of the signal corps has been completely filled, and no more enlistments for that branch will be accepted.

URGE U. S. CONTROL OF COAL MINES

OPERATORS CHARGED WITH "DOCTORING" BOOKS BY FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

Washington, May 21.—Declaring that coal mine operators are charging exorbitant prices—often several hundred times the cost of their production—the federal trade commission today urged Congress to establish control by governmental agencies which may fix prices.

The commission declared that coal operators have "doctored" their books, vast discrepancies being found in the actual prices at the mine and the recorded prices.

The method of coal distribution from the mouth of the mine to the ultimate consumer—with authority to allot quantities of coal to various classes of consumers—was also urged.

There is and has been an "ample" productive capacity of coal in the country the commission declared.

Other than extortionate price fixing, the commission blames failure of railroads to furnish sufficient car space and diversion of coastwise and lake shipping to ocean traffic, as prime factors in the present unprecedented flight of coal prices.

In addition to urging drastic government regulations, the commission suggested remedial action to improve transportation facilities, preserve the labor supply and increase storage facilities at points of consumption.

SUFFERING CATS! GIVE THIS MAN THE GOLD MEDAL

Let folks stop on your feet here—after wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezeone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out.

This drug is a sticky, ether compound, but dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue.

It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezeone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callous from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a weary traveler who wears high heels.

HORSES WITH BIG WAGON ON A WILD RUNWAY

School Children on Bartlett Street Have a Narrow Escape From Injury.

Several school children on Bartlett street just escaped serious injuries on Monday afternoon when a pair of horses attached to a large wagon of Charles H. Badger went on a wild rampage, wrecking the wagon and harness and injuring themselves. The animals started from the yard of the Frank Jones Brewing Company with the wagon heavily loaded with brewery grain. They came into Bartlett street with much speed, striking a pole near the junction of Bartlett and Islington street. When the crash came one of the pair was thrown to the ground but the other horse held its feet. Officer Philbrick grabbed the standing horse and while he was holding it by the head, the horse on the ground cleared himself and started directly back to the brewery yard. His rampage did not end there, although the driver caught him with part of the rig hanging to him. He managed to get away the second time and took to the sidewalk on Bartlett street just at the time when a half hundred children were on their way home from the spaulding school. Why some of them were not fatally injured is a miracle. Tearing along the sidewalk, the horse continued directly to the Badger farm. Both horses were cut quite badly about the head and mouth.

THE HERALD HEARS

That two guards have so far lost their lives on the railroad while guarding the Boston and Maine bridge at Biddeford.

That Concord has opened up a protest against the "starvation" signs on the street cars and they are to be removed.

That several cities have branded the signs as false and misleading.

That the Concord firemen intend that no land shall go to waste near the central fire station and have planted every foot of the same.

That according to the ruling of the police board on tramps, the police court will be a little more busy.

That the Chamber of Commerce has received 26 names as applicants for permanent secretary.

That out of the lot, the chamber will, it is said, make the selection from five of that number.

That the intention is to employ a secretary who will make good on the job.

That the time for the straw lid is with us but there seems to be no rush to change the headgear since the weatherman is inclined to mix it up as he has in the past.

That the boosters for the Kaiser are disappearing, some to Mexico and others to prison.

OLYMPIA THEATRE NOTES.

Bessie Barlow is soon to appear in a new Triangle play wherein the players wear some of the most beautiful gowns ever seen on the screen.

The Motion Picture Producers association of Los Angeles seeks the co-operation of the press in abolishing the word "movies."

Mary MacLaren, who was formerly with the Bluebird company, has started a company of her own.

William S. Hart, who is on his first vacation in years, is making a tour of some of the principal cities and appears in person on the stage of those theatres showing Triangle plays. Monday evening of this week he was seen in the St. James and the Globe theatres, Boston.

Charlie Chaplin recently paid a visit to the studio where Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks are working and it was said that in the spring Douglas and Mary might do a picture together. Nothing was said of Chaplin. If the trio could be induced to do a picture, there would be two results. It would be a wonderful sight to see the treasurer of the company making out the payroll for these stars and it would be a wonderful sight to see the public attempting to purchase seats in the theatres where this great play would be shown. There is not a doubt that if Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Chaplin played in a picture, it would be the greatest drawing card ever seen in the theatrical business.

William Fox says that the war will not injure the picture industry, but it may delay the day when the motion picture will become an international recreation.
